

The sentences are out of order. There are also misspellings and other mistakes. Organize the following passage and edit for errors to have it ready to send to Grandmother before you start your journey! The correct organization of the letter is written on the next page.

Dear Grandmother,

i cannot wait to start my journey to your howse.

Thank you for writing me the letter, Grandmoter!

However, I will be on the lookout for snakes and also to stay on the path!

I completely understand and appreciate your conserns.

Please be on the lookout for me by sunset on friday...and a nice dinner when I arrive would be amazing!

I am hopeful to start the journey by the end of this week and am thinking it will take me all day to get to your house.

Also, I am carrying with me a wild animal call to keep snakes away and also some ammonia strips as I have heard snakes do not like them.

I have many items packed in my bag but I will add a flashlite.

Thank you for the suggestion of a flashlite!

I will plan to see you friday by sunset. Looking forward to my journey and to seeing you!

Again, thank u for your concerns and I am hopeful you are at ease after reading this letter.

Love,
Your grandchild

Read final letter to me!

Dear Grandmother,

Thank you for writing me the letter, Grandmother! I cannot wait to start my journey to your house. I completely understand and appreciate your concerns. However, I will be on the lookout for snakes and also to stay on the path!

I am hopeful to start the journey by the end of this week and am thinking it will take me all day to get to your house. Please be on the lookout for me by sunset on Friday...and a nice dinner when I arrive would be amazing!

Thank you for the suggestion of a flashlight! I have many items packed in my bag but I will add a flashlight. Also, I am carrying with me a wild animal call to keep snakes away and also some ammonia strips as I have heard snakes do not like them.

Again, thank you for your concerns and I am hopeful you are at ease after reading this letter. I will plan to see you Friday by sunset. Looking forward to my journey and to seeing you!

Love,
Your grandchild

Time to start your journey.

Click to listen!

Awesome! I have finished the response letter to Grandmother, so now I can start my journey to her house. Yes! I will watch out for animals and stay on the path!